The Need for Encouragement

By Anthony Tincher

Today we live in a world filled with a lot of negativity. Discouragement is found all around in different forms of media whether on television or in the newspapers. Some people put others down at times and do not see the benefit in trying to put others before themselves. As Christians we ought to change the trend and be filled with encouragement and be willing to spread that to others.

We should take delight in knowing that we are children of God. We have every reason in the world to be encouraged by that each and every single day of our lives. The Church should be filled with members that try to build one another up and not try to tear others down. So let's look for opportunities to compliment others or encourage them in one way or another. Lifting someone up might be as simple as making a phone call or making a visit to someone who is going through a difficult time. Another way we could build one another up is by writing a letter or praying for someone else. The opportunities to encourage others are infinite if we look around and put ourselves in other people's shoes. All we have to do is just make a small effort today and look for some way we can build up the Church for God's glory.

Let's all start today by looking for ways to build up our brothers and sisters in Christ. We cannot influence the world positively if we are not set apart from the world. One way we can be different from the world is by being a constant source of encouragement to all those that are around us.

"Therefore comfort each other and edify one another, just as you also are doing. And we urge you, brethren, to recognize those who labor among you, and are over you in the Lord and admonish you. And to esteem them very highly in love for their work's sake. Be at peace among yourselves. Now we exhort you, brethren, warn those who are unruly, comfort the fainthearted, uphold the weak, be patient with all." (1 Thessalonians 5:11-14)
